Useful Websites to Support Phonics at Home

www.topmarks.co.uk

These are free games that can be played to practice the letter sounds.

www.phonicsplay.co.uk

This has games for the children to play as well as a parent section proving information on what Phonics is and how you can help your child.

www.phonicsplaycomics.co.uk

This website provides online comics for children to read at all stages of their reading ability.

www.bbc.co.uk

The CBeebies program Alphablocks is an engaging program which teaches the children the letter sounds in short programs. The website also has printable resources.

www.phonicsbloom.com

Lots of games for children to play for free

www.education.com

Lots of different games for children to play

Jolly Phonics has several apps which complement the teaching of Phonics at All Saints CEVA Primary School. They focus on the 42 letter sounds and the songs used to support the learning of the sounds. There is a small fee for these apps.